The Society of Yukon Bird Observatories was formed in 2010 to administer and manage the Yukon Bird Observatory field stations including Albert Creek, Teslin Lake and McIntyre Marsh. Initiated in 2001, the bird observatories collect monitoring data for birds in the Yukon and promote the awareness of migratory birds. The field stations also play a role in providing an educational opportunity for the public including school groups.

You are invited to become a member of the Society of Yukon Bird Observatories to support the ongoing bird monitoring at the field stations. All members will receive regular updates of the stations activities including exceptional captures and sightings. Society newsletters are prepared regularly and will also be provided to all members in electronic format.

Membership Fees (April 1 to March 31; for a two year membership, double the below fees)

Individual	$15.00	Contributing	$50.00
Family	$20.00	Supporting	$100.00
Senior	$10.00	Institutional	$50.00
Student	$10.00

Family memberships must include at least two individuals; please indicate the names of each person covered under this membership category. Foreign and American members please pay via Canadian money order (please do not pay with US cheque). Members may also choose to make a financial donation to the society (of any dollar amount) to accompany their membership dues. All funds raised go directly to operating the Yukon Bird Observatory field stations.
